The following Press Communique issued by the Government of India is published for general information :—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, HEALTH AND LANDS.

(AGRICULTURE.)

Simla, the 22nd June 1923.

PRESS COMMUNIQUE.

In relation to the Provincial Agricultural Colleges, the Agricultural Research Institute and College at Pusa occupies the position of a higher teaching Institution in enabling students by means of post-graduate courses of the highest possible standard to qualify for the best appointments in the various branches of agricultural work not only in India but in the neighbouring colonies. The position of the Pusa Institute and College was examined by the Royal Commission on the Public Services in India and it was recommended that (1) Pusa should be maintained principally for research work, and (2) facilities should be provided at the Research Institute for the training of post-graduate selected students in agricultural research up to the highest standard provided by the best equipped agricultural Institutions of Europe and America, such additions being made to the staff of that Institution as might be necessary for the purpose. A scheme for the expansion of the Institute to provide training on a larger scale both for direct recruitment and promotion to the Imperial Service has been sanctioned by the Secretary of State, but the depressed condition of the Imperial finances makes the immediate realisation of the full scheme impossible. Excellent facilities however exist at Pusa for a complete training in special branches of Agricultural Science, such as Agricultural Chemistry Botany, Mycology, Agricultural Bacteriology and Entomology and since its establishment the Pusa Institute has given post-graduate training in these specialised branches to 131 students, besides affording laboratory facilities to 26 scientific research workers for short periods. Most of these students who have undergone the post-graduate training were deputed by local Government and Indian States and many of them have been absorbed in their respective agricultural departments, a few in the Indian Agricultural Service cadre and the rest in the Provincial Services.

2. With a view to develop the post-graduate training at Pusa to the highest possible standard so that Indians who wish to enter the Indian Agricultural Service may be afforded facilities compatable with those available to European students. The prospectus of the Pusa Institute has been under rivision. The revised draft was considered by a special conference held at Pusa in February 1922, and it was recommended that admission to these post-graduate courses in special subjects should be strictly limited to post-graduate students who may be :—

(1) Students who have passed with distinction through the course of a Provincial Agricultural College and are recommended by their Local Governments.

(2) Graduates in Science from an Indian University who should preferably, subsequent to taking their degree, have spent at least one year at an Agricultural College and who are recommended by the Director of Agriculture of the Province as likely to profit by the course of instruction which they propose to follow.

(3) Students deputed by an Indian State who may be admitted on the application of the State concerned, provided they have the qualifications indicated above, and that accommodation is available.

The Conference was also of opinion that a two-years' training under the specialists would form a suitable qualification for admission to the Indian Agricultural Service. It was however considered that what was wanted was more the asssociation of the post-graduate students with the research work in progress rather than a hard and fast course of instruction and that it must be left open to the Head of the Section concerned to frame the course of instruction so as to suit individual requirements and afford all facilities for conduct of research.

The Government of India have accepted these recommendations with slight modifications and have decided to start these courses in the next cold weather commencing from 1st November 1923, and to throw them open to distinguished graduates of Universities or Agricultural Colleges and also to students who have undergone training in agriculture and its allied branches in British Universities or in one of the recognised Agricultural Colleges and who possess suitable qualifications. Candidates for admission will appear before a responsible selection committee and only those who are likely to be able to make the most use of the courses will be selected. As a start it is proposed to admit twelve students to these post-graduate courses commencing on 1st November 1923, viz., 3 in Agricultural Chemistry, 2 in Mycology, 2 in Entomology, 3 in Agricultural Bacteriology and 2 in Botany. For further particulars regarding the courses, fees chargeable, etc., application should be made to the Director and Principal, Agricultural Research Institute and College, Pusa. All applications for admission must reach that officer before 1st October next.

It must however be pointed out that the Government can give no guarantee of employment, and that the number of specialists' appointments in the Indian Agricultural Service cadre both under the Imperial and provincial Governments is very limited, the normal rate of recruitment to these research posts being less than one a year.

(Sd.) R. B. EWBANK,
Deputy Secretary to the Government of India.

By Order,
T. E. JEYARAMA AIYAR,
Secretary to Government,
Revenue Department.
